PRINTING AND PRINTERS. Sizty-six of the leading papers of the State, through their publishers and editors, have signed and presented a memorial, and remonstrance to the Assembly, in relation to the reduction of fees for legal advertising.—
The memorial is quite lengthy, but dignified, able and convincing. These papers may not have much money, but they have a certain great power, and while this impending ruin kang over them, they are bound, by the law of self-preservation, to use their strength Many papers will die in less than a year, if this law passes. The State cannot afford to have the tide of oblivion sweep through her have the tide of oblivion sweep through her

It would be well if some dirty sheets were dead, but it would certainly be a public calamity to pass a law which would terminate the existence of scores of able papers. This is no idle, silly thing, for I have seen editors from the country who are careful, upright, hard-working men-gentlemen; who most earnestly protest against this law, and show plainly, that it will be ruinous.

In relation to printing the Governor's Message in foreign languages, Ceneral Coap offered a substitute, that the State Printer farnish 6,000 copies of the message in pamphlet form in the English language, and that the Superintendent of Public Property purchase, for the use of the Assembly, papers containing the message, as follows: 1,500 copies of the Milwaukee Atlas; 1,500 of the Watertown Volks-Zeitung; 1,500 of the Madison Zeitung, in the German language; 2,000 copies of the Emigranten, in the Norwegian, and 1,000 of the Nieuwsbode, in the Dutch language, and 1 060 in the Welch language of Joun Jones, of lows county, at a price not exceeding ten rents per conv. Hors moved to strike out with regard to Welch. Bouck was opposed to printing any documents except in English. BARNUM. Colk and Elmone were opposed also. Mr. June was surprised to see opposition come from the Democratic side of the House after the practice that had obtained here for years. The morning hour expired here, and dragged the debate down into its grave. Then came a scaring, tearing old time, about how much should be given for newspapers. Members said the SESTIMEL cost five cents, and at that rate the Treasury would be robbed, of course. and a mortgage would be given on the park here. Five cents would buy a pair of pocket combs and two dirty little apples. The amount should be fixed to stop steals. Finally, it was agreed to take nine dailies and yay for them. The country is safe 'till 10 o'clock A. M.—perhaps longer. INWARIABLE.

How IT Works.—The Legislature of Nebraska pass

How it Works.—The Legalature of Nebraska passed a law probibiting always in that Territory. The Governor vetoed the bill on the new principle promulgated by the President and his Southern backers, that legalatures of Territories cannot exclude slavery by unfriendly legilation. When in God's name, we would ask, can the people exclude slavery? Will it not be as wrong—yes, more sector admit slavery all the while the territory exists as such, and then, by and through the means of a constitutional convention root out and craditate slave express who may have rescaledly and in good faith setstitutional convention root and an applicational contention of the section of the subject? Will the people of the South like that style? Isn't is a tremendous humbur?—Washington County Democrat.

We are glad to see one Democratic paper, in Wisconsin, waking up on this subject. Our we will do the same by all of them. We Washington County contemporary is the first like beauty, we do! to protest against Gov. BLACK's veto. How many others will follow its example? But, after all, Gov. BLACK is not the party in fault. He has only followed instructions and carried out the views our "National Democratic Administration." The "principle" upon which his message was based is the 'corner stone" of modern, or Sham Democracy. Our Democratic President, our Democratic Supreme Court, and our Democratic Senators and Representatives in Congress, with here and there an exception, declare this "principle" to be the test of orthodox Democracy. What is brother FARRAR going to do about it?

A DOUGLAS AND BARSTOW TRIUMPH .-- We learn that the name of PATRICK ROGAN has been sent in to the Senate, as Postmaster at Watertown, in this State, vice Gen. POTTER, removed. About a year ago Mr. WILLIAMS, who was then P. M. at Watertown and made an excellent officer, was removed because he was an anti-Barstow Democrat. Now Gen. Manufactories in Wisconsin.

Mr. EDITOR:- From the report of the proceedings in our Legislature, it will be seen that a resolution has been introduced, making enquiries as to what legislation is necessary to encourage manufacturing in this State. Every citizen who feels an interest in the future of Wisconsin, and a patriotic pride in the growth and prosperity of his own State, will rejoice to see this movement and look with favor upon the inauguration to encourage capitalists to invest in manufactories, and furnish employment for labor among our own people.

The great barrier to the business of manu. facturing in Wisconsin is the high rate of interest allowed by law, and exacted for money, and the burdensome rates of taxation in the State. These two obstacles must first be removed, before manufactories can be successfully established, and made to prosper with us. A general law in the State exempting certain manufacturing establishments from all taxation for a term of, say twenty years, would be a strong inducement for capitalists to seek investment in that department of business. That such a law would be constitutional, there can be no question. Sec. I, article 8, of the Constitution says, "The rale of taxation shall be uniform and taxes shall be layled upon such property as the Legislature shall prescribe." From this pro-vision of the Constitution it will be seen that bill-handed list, was ushered into existence by Earstor Manon, on Monday. It will be recognized as the seventy-seventh grand-son of General Bunkum:

E-solved, That we denounce as worthy of the most inqualified conformation, every demonstration, and every expression of public sentiment tending to exten-ly or wholly exempted.

With some practicable and liberal encouragement, cotton, woolen, noil and glass factories, rolling mills, furnaces and machine shops, tanneries, white lead establishments, manufactories of boots and shoes on a large manuactories of motors and smooth in a large scale, of all kinds of farming implements, and furniture would soon be established, and the money that is now annually sent out of the State to pay for the products of such institu-tions, would be saved at home among our

Resolved, Therefore, that we appoint a select committee of thirteen, to inquire in abundance in our own State, and such as with the Lasband South; we have material in abundance in our own State, and such as dees not exist here, can be easily and cheaply obtained. Cotton can be landed at any point on the line of our railroads, cheaper than it can be in most New England towns. Breadstuffs and provisions of every kind are cheaper in Wisconsin than in New England. Only furnish, the expoleronment and labor will be as er in Wisconsin than in New England. Only furnish the employment, and labor will be as plenty here as there, while the cost of living for operatives will be much less.

Wisconsin furnishes hides and wool enough, from which to manufacture all the boots and shoes and woollen goods worn by our people. Neglecting, except in a very limited degree, to manufacture these articles in our own State, we are compelled to purchase them from the Eastern manufacturer, paying a large profit to him on his business. paying a large profit to him on his business and a double transportation on the material

Volumes might be written on this subject without exhausting it; and the Legislature cannot act more wisely and beneficially for the interests of the people and State, than to enact such laws as will encourage the busi-ness of manufacturing in Wisconson, thereby furnishing employment to labor and sav-ing money to the people. H. Fire at Lishon.

EDS. SENTINEL:-The most disastrous ire which has ever taken place in this section of the country, occurred about 1 o'clock this morning. The large barn of Thomson Richmond. Esq., containing seven horses, twelve head of cattle, about forty sheep, over a thousand bushels of wheat and a large quantity of other grain, a threshing machine, wagous, &c., is a beap of smouldering ruins. The loss is a great one, and falls heavily upon a very estimable man. Yours, W. M. COLBY.

DEATH BY A BLOW OF THE FIST .- At Oconomowoc, last Monday night, a small party of men were playing cards, when one protecting her from the immense weight of of them, Mr. Joseph Mills, accused a fellow named Edan of cheating. Edan immediately left the room, and returning in a few minutes, met Mills by the door, and struck him a powerful blow right under the jaw bone, with his fist, and Mills fell dead on the floor. Mr. Mills lived in the adjoining town of Summit, and leaves a family. He was a respeciable citizen and generally liked. EGAN the latter to leave. On the 25th of the month the latter to leave. But she shall have it regularly, and if there are any more levely women up there,

A ROLAND FOR AN OLIVER, -Some of the legal gentlemen in the Legislature having distinguished themselves in the effort to cut down the printers' fees, Mr. KEOGH, of this city, who belongs to the craft, introduced on Monday the following resolution:

Resoluted, That the Committee on Printing be and they are hereby instructed to freport to this Assembly whether in their opinion the fees now asked and received by the legal profession, for the conducting of all cases in our courts, are not so exhorbitant and oppressive as to require at our hands the adoption of a law restricting and defining their charges. THE EMIGRATION to Pike's Peak, it would seem, has already commenced. The St. Joseph Gazette, of the 19th, announces the arrival in that city of one hundred and twenty gold seekers from Ohio, who were on their way to the land of golden promise. Mr. GREGORY, the discoverer of the Gregory diggings, was to have left St. Joseph for the mines on Tuesday last.

ACCIDEST AND NARROW ESCAPE .- AL ACCIDENT AND NARROW ESCAPE.—At Richmond, Va., a few evenings ago, a large, triangular shaped chimney, attached to the rear of a building situated on Governor street, (occupied by M. G. Poncet as a drinking saloon,) fell with a tremendious crash, entirely demolishing a brick kitchen continuous, and burving in the rains a likely tiguous, and burying in the ruins a likely young Irish girl named Bridget McCran, emyoung trish girl named bridget McUran, employed on the premises. The Dispatch says a large number of citizens hastened to the spot and set to work, repeatedly answering the calls of the prison-bound woman, and by words of kindness quieted her fears and assured her of ber liberation. The joists and other timbers that seemed to have been piled over the prisoner were carefully saved other timoers that seemed to have been piled over the prisoner were carefully sawed through, the loose bricks and dirt were removed, and after four hours incessant labor, an opening was made, the rubbish that bound the prisoner's extremities were removed, and she was rescued from her place of torture. An examination of the preprises of torture. An examination of the premises since the accident shows that just where she was standing one large plece of timber feld directly over her, the end of which lodged on the foundation wall above her head, and brick and frame-work. Another piece came lown by her left arm, fracturing the bone slightly and penning her next to the wall, so that she could only move her right hand, which was uninjured, yet guard-ing her against the fallen rubbish.

tone that but few of his words reached the reporter's gallery. He was understood to depectate the extremes of both parties.

Mr. Woodson rose to a personal explanation; denying the truth of a dispatch in the New York Herald, that he intended to promote the adonten of the plurality rule. Bepose the adoption of the plurality rule. Be-lieving that the election of a Speaker under such a rule would be unconstitutional, he should never vote for or favor it in any way He indicated that the resolution he to offer, from which had probably emanated the dispatch, proposed on successive ballots to drop the candidates receiving the lowest number of vetes, until the contest is narrow. ed down to the two highest, which would cessarily result in an election by a ma ority.

Messrs. Hotton, Hops and Logan severally

made personal explanations.

Mr. Ashmore said he wished to offer a resolution that the reporters of the New York therald be expelled from the galleries. No reason was given for this resolution. Mr. reason was given for this resolution. Mr. Ashmore said he simply had the resolution read for information. If any one desired to disense it, he would consent to let it lie over. Mr. Keitt repled to some of the arguments of Mr. Corwin. He conceded that the senti-ments that the fathers of the Republic were Anti-Slavery men, but fresh from the battle fields of the Revolution; they subordinated fields of the Revolution; they suttording their sentiments, and made a,pro-slavery Government. The Republicans say they carry out the policy of the Government, but while they protest the sentiments, they cover up the acts. Who made the Fugitive Slave Law and erected Territory after Territory, with Slavery thereon?

Mr. Ashmore said that his resolution was alread one out the standard in the Harald purgation at the proper place. The official organ of the administration, the Constitution, had so far forgotten its duty as to stigmatize the Republicans as traitors, using loathsome invectives and saying they had been bought with a shilling.

Mr. Etheridge made some remarks which produced the best possible feeling among members. He promised if they cease debat-ing for two weeks, a Speaker would be elect; ed before that time.

The House voted: necessary to a choice, 108; Sherman, 105; Bocock, 51; Smith, of Mr. Brown's resolution that Territories are the common property of all the States, came up, and Mr. Wilson spoke at great length.— Among his remarks he said in no country in christendom were freemen subjected to such insults and indignities as in the slaveholding States of this American Republic. Southern statesmen admitted that the opinious of Southern men had undergone a revolution, and this change had affected the policy of the general government.

The power of the slave-holding class was obtained through the instrumentality of the obtained through the instrumentality of the Democratic party which was forced to carry flags and bear the burdens of a privileged class. He recounted a history of events from the close of the Mexican war to the present time to show that the Democratic party had been compelled to act always in the interest of the Slave power. The Slavery propaga-tors desired Cuba and Mexico in order to extors desired Cuba and Mexico in order to ex-tend Slavery, and it was to arrest this policy and to restore the Government to the policy of its founders that the Republican party was organized. They believed that Slavery was local and sectional, and that Congress or the people of the Territories could prohibit Slavery on these points. They had joined issue with the Democratic party which had been overthrown in nearly all of the Free States.

States.

Mr. Wilson pronounced the threats

Adjusted the Union in the state of the Southern men to dissolve the Union in th Southern men to dissoire the Union in the event of the election of a Republican President, as a disunion farce which had been played in 1856, and was to be repeated now. The Northern Democrats, who were fatiguing the weary ear of the country with worn out professions of love for the Union, dared not rebuke the disloyal threats of their leaders, and were willing to continue the destines of and were willing to continue the destinies of the country in the hands of men who avowed the country in the hands of men who avowed their intention to rule or ruin.

He interpreted Senator Clay's remarks to mean, that they who favored a dissolution of the Union did not intend to leave the Capital, but ready for a general collision—a bloody struggle in the Halls of Congress. In reply to this threat, he had to say that Northern Senators could not be intimidated by it. They were here not to fight, but to legislate; hut he would give the Senator from North Carolina notice that should they be Morth Carolina notice that should they be assaulted here with deadly intent, while in discharge of duties, those assaults will be repelled and retailated by sons who will not dishonor fathers who fought at Bunker Hill, and conquered at Saratoga. Though reluc-tant to enter upon such a struggle, they would not abandon it in this hour.

The American Democracy, led and controled by the slavery propogandists, stood be-fore the nation as the enemy of human pro-gress. He recounted wrongs it had perpe-trated in Kansas and elsewhere, and closed trated in Kansas and elsewhere, and closed by expressing the hope that intelligent patriotism would rebuke the mad exhibitions of folly and fanatioism, which would sliver the Union into fragments, and proclaimed, in the language of Jackson, "the Union must and shall be preserved."

After some further discussion the Senate addingmed.

These two speechs strikingly and fitly illustrate the respective attitudes of the two great parties of the country at the present moment. In Congress and throughout the country we hear little else from the Democratic erators and organs than clanorous and persistent inserpresentations of Republican doctrines and Republican statesmen; fierce denunciation of the North and vaporing threats of dissolving the Union and taking possession of the Federal Government, in the event of the election of a Republican statesmen, force event of the election of a Republican statesmen force on the treather of the election of a Republican statesmen force event of the election of a Republican statesmen force event of the election of a Republican statesmen force of the election of a Republican statesmen force event of the election of a Republican statesmen force event of the election of a Republican statesmen should be a seasiled here, day after day, in a manner conventions, or anything else. He had been often side and a satisfactory explanation, it is not the conventions and there had been often side and a satisfactory explanation, it is resolution is intended as a stigns, while the resolution is intended as a stigns, while the rand of a siting at the connent strong and is singer on the trigger. You may be took and and the singer on the trigger in tool, and his linger on the trigger on the trigger in the location and a satismation it of any pressed were not characterized by candor and a manly course. While the resolution is intended as a stigns, while the sand of the label singer on the trigger in tool, and his wetion to the Constitution and laws of the land, and are rallying for the great contest of November next, under the WEBSTERIAN motto, "Liberty and Union, now and forever, one and inseperable."

More "Agitation."

Mr. Manon, one of the Democratic members, has introduced into the Senate a preamble and sundry resolutions about Harper's Ferry, the Union, &c., which the News promounces "ratriotic" and calls upon the Legislature to pass, without amendment, or alteration. The Legislature will do no such foolish thing. In the first place, they are not called upon for any expression of opinion on these subjects; in the second place, Mr. Maxon's resolutions are merely partisan is their object and language; and in the third place, if the Legislature "denounces" any discuss them: I stand by my political way and gentlemen may discuss them: I stand by my political way from the Western Earns underwriters will not ensure that the command of a vessel to any man while of any citizen; I have made but one willing to define them; I have made but one willing to define them; I have made but one willing to define them; I have made but one willing to define them; I have made but one willing to define them; I have made but one willing to define them; I have made but one will not entrust the command of a vessel to any man while of any citizen; have made but one willing to define them; I have made but one willing to define them; I have made but one willing to define them; I have made but one willing to define them; I have made but one willing to define them; I have made but one willing to define them; I have made but one willing to define them; I have made but one willing to define them; I have made but one willing to define them; I have made but one will not entrust the command of a vessel to any man when as recourse to violence as the rule of discipline. A Model Bill.

The bill to prohibit slavery in Nebraska which passed both Houses of the Territorial Legislature and was vetoed by Governor erry, reminers.

The Judge made one startling disclosure, which was new to us all. He said that during the Presidential contest, Gov. Wise had addressed letters to all the Southern Governors—and that the one to the Governor of Fiorida had been shown him—in which Wise said that HE HAD AN ARMY IN READINESS TO PRIVENT FREMONT FROM TAKING HIS SEAT, IF ELECTED, and saking the co-operation of those to whom he wrote?"

Mr. FAULENER, of Virginia, whom a Democratic President has just nominated and a Democratic Senate confirmed, as Minister to France, endorses and applauds this treasonable sentiment of Gov. Wisz: and avers his readiness to put the threat into execution latter, of great "outrages" committed by newhenever the People of the United States | gross at Chatham, Canada West. The teleshall dare to elect a Republican President.

A Good Union Symptom .- The Democratic Legislatures of Kentucky and Tennessee, both Slave States, are to-day enjoying the Lospitalities of the "Black Republicans" of Ohio, a Free State, in the goodly city of Cincinuati. There is no doubt that the three Legislatures will have a good time together; that the ghest of Joun Brown will not rise to vex them; nor Helpen's "Impending Crisis" take away their appetites; nor SEWARD's "Irrepressible Conflict," or SHERMAN'S prospective election as Speaker, disturb their simmbers. We think this one fact worth all the Democratic disunion speeches made in Congress during the present Session.

The Tave Difference—The men of the South declare that if the men of the North force upon them a more sectional candidate, a man bound by the nets he has counternanced already, to deprive them of their property by letting loos their staves, a man who would make the whole South what Chathata, in Chinada, is more, that the Union is disselved, and they will set up for themselves.—News of yesterday.

Inasmuch as there is no such man talked of, or thought of for the Presidency, by "the men of the North," and no Republican candidate who holds to any such doctrines, or who would meet with any Republican support, if he did, it follows, according to the national, and freedom sectional; that the country would take notice that was the only accusation against him.

Mr. Hindman, Ark,—I charge the gentleman with having advocated, on this floor, a proposition to exclude Slavery from the Teritories by Congressional legislation, and of having arowed his intention to oppose the admission of any Slave States into the Union, and of having branded the Fugitive Slave Law as savage and inhuman. I charge him with having stigmatized Southern Slavery as injurious and a crime.

Mr. Sherman—In other words, I am chargwith being a Republican; this is my offence; place, if the Legislature "denounces" any may disonses them; I stand by my political record. Gentlemen on the other side, producints and disonionists in Congress, who disiming me a traitor by implication, in order Lectionists and disonionists in Congress, who rofuse to submit to the will of the majority; resist the organization of the House; clog the wheels of government; put off the public creditors; and threaten, in the event of a Republican President being elected, to seize the arsenal at Harper's Ferry, make a "raid" in pon Washington, and forcibly resist the verdict of the ballot-box.

diaming me a traitor by implication, in order to serve a political purpose, have called on me to show the proof of my innocence. They have failed to sustain their charge. When called upon to speedly, the only thing they could say was that while sitting at my desk, a friend came to me, and I authorized him to use my name to a paper, and that by this I became a traitor, and would put the torch in the incendiary's hand. This is not fair argument. I repeat if the gentieman from Missouri desires to know what my sentiments are as to the extracts from the book, I will are as to the extracts from the book, I will give them if he will remove what I consider give them if he will remove what I consider an insulting menace. Otherwise I never will. It is not in my blood, and this gentleman cannot put it there. (Applause.)

I have been patient and forbearing. I desire to see an organization opposed to the Administration. It is our highest duty to investigate and analyze the mode in which this Construction has been deregisted from which passed both Houses of the Territorial BLACK MAIL.—An enterprising Richmond firm is preparing to furnish Southern merchants and business men "with such reliable information regarding Northern mercantile houses as will enable them to trade exclusively with those who are friendly to the South and her institutions." These books are to contain the names of all Northern leaves contain the tames of the conference are to contain the names of all Northern houses ascertained to be worthy of the conditioner of Southern merchants, so that the latter may discriminate between friends and opponents. To defray expenses the projectors say, "we shall charge each house, whose name or card appears in our directory, a sum not less than fifty dollars, to be paid at the time of subscribing." An agent of the firm making this modest request is now in New York soliciting subscribions.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT .- On Saturday a News' logic, that the Disunion cry of "the green of the South" is uterly without foundation, and therefore factious and treasonable.

That is "the true difference."

SPEAKING OUT IN MEETING.—In a recent speech Senator GREEN, of Missouri, and control of the upset car, had his shoulder dislocated. Three other passenger were slightly bruised. Their names are John Kasper, of Delaware, Lewis Schlesser, of Canal Fulton, and Robert Thomas, of Wayne county. ser, of Ganat A. Wayne county.

latter was restricted to what Senator Mason, of Virginia, calls the "servile" States, while the former extended over all the Territorial domain, as well as over fifteen sovereign States, which declaration was received with applause on the Democratic side. This is, just now, the all-pervading doctrine of the Democratic party, and is to be the test of political orthodoxy in the next campaign.

It is a remarkable fact that nearly all the candidates for the Vice Presidency at the Democratic National Convention at Cincinnati in June, 1856, have since paid the debt of nature. Linn Boyd, of Kentucky, J. C. Branch, of North Cerolina, General Quitman, of Mississippi, General Ruek, of Texas, and Aaron V. Brown, of Tennessee, were presented as candidates by their respective States, and obtained their support. They are now all dead!

THURSDAY MORNING, JAN. 26, 1860 to note the purely factious character of the opposition to his election:

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

A Republican State Convention will be held at the Capital, in Madison, on Wednesder, the 29th day of February, 1500, at 12 o'slock M., to choose four deterates from the State at large, and two from each. Congressional District, to represent the State of Wisconsian Chicago on the 1th of next June, to nominate two cancellates for presidential electors for the State at large; the Superenc Court of the State; and for the transaction of Helper's book.

Mr. Sherman asked Mr. Clark whether he would withdraw his resolution, in order to make him a saltwater saint. Jack is now about 50 years of age, but he does not appear to be more than 40, and with a little outly divided that he had had had a proposition to be held at Chicago on the 1th of next June, to nominate two cancellations of the special principles.

Lates for presidential electors for the State at large; the Superenc Court of the State; and for the transaction of the special calculated to him, and the state in the prooffs time and manner, he cut of what he said no nonescense. Having served many special principles.

Each Assembly District of the State will be entitled desired to do, namely: afford opportunity for explanation. When the gentleman from Wissouri introduced the resolution, offensive in character, and at an important the interests of the party and promote the said he desired to do, namely: afford opportunity for explanation. When the gentleman from Wissouri introduced the resolution, offensive in character, and at an important the interests of the party and promote the said he desired to do, namely: afford opportunity to explain the head had had a would tail the gentleman from the representation of the state at large, and two opportunities to make his explanation, the circulation of Helper's book.

Mr. Sherman asked Mr. Clark whether he would withdraw his resolution, in order to make him a saltwater saint. Jack is now charged that he had objected to the introduc-tion of a bill, but when the gentleman who introduced it made a satisfactory explanation, he (Sherman,) withdrew his objection. The country would take notice that was the only accusation against him. Self-concerted man, he is antiestendary only of the ablest seamen in the country. Any ship he commands will be surely well found and make quick passages, but he seems to take special pleasure in rendering every man under him—officers, as well as satiors, as uncomfortable as possible. He is evidently afflicted with a diseased liver. When flogging was abolished by law, he not only denounced those who abolished it, but to show nounced those who accussed that he would flog the next crew that he commanded, and he made good his boast. He has since left the sea, independently wealthy, and we hope he will never again disgrace it by his received.

We hope the time is not far distant when

cious remarks in relation to the size of Western farms :

More land than a farmer can cultivate well, and seasonably at all times, is a damage and a loss to him. That this is so, every one will admit; but how much the farmer can cultivate well, is a question on which there is a good deal of difference of which there is a good deal of difference of opinion.

A German who has lived and supported a family on five acres of land in the old country, usually feels well satisfied when he comes to this country to get forly acres; emigrants from other countries want more, but do not usually covet large farms. But the enterprising and speculative Yankee farmer, usually buys a big farm if he can manage to do so—two, three, four, or even five hundred acres—never calculating just how he is going to improve stock and carry farms pay much the best in proportion, and are also much the most advantageous to the country. Let the farmer go down deep as well as sideways; he will find his land equally valuable and even more so in that direction. Eighty or one hundred acres of land, when thoroughly gone over, will be found to be a good deal of land, and to call for a deal of hard work. Let men who have unimproved or half-improved farms scattered about them, producing little or nothing, think of these producing little or nothing, think of these facts, and may be learn from them one cause of their getting along so poorly. Let such also study where to divide and sell of the surplus and useless portions of their farms, even at medium or low prices, rather than to keep them at the sacrifice of taxes and of interest. Remember that all such unproduc-tive lands swallow themselves up in taxes and interest once in about fire years. Better sell at moderate rates than to keep dead weights bearing down upon us: more land than we can well use is worse than useless, and that condition of things is to-day one of the greatest drawbacks on the prosperity of RAIN IN EGYPT.—Sir Archibald Alison, in his history of Europe, writes as follows:

"It never rains in Egypt; centuries may clapse without more than a shower of drizzling mist moistening the surface of the soil. It is said that it has not rained in Egypt for 1700 years. A correspondent of the Wines. 1700 years. A correspondent of the Times writes from Alexandrin, Oct. 31, 1859, as follows: "Englishmen express their astorishment at the heavy rains we have lately experienced, having come with the erroneous im pression that it never rains in Egypt." Upon this, it is asked whether the rain which is referred to by the above correspondent, is the first which has appeared in Egypt for 1700

the way of ornament and decoration.

THE NEW equestrian statue of Washington, by Clark Mills, which is to be erected in the "circle," in Pennsylvania avenue, Washington City, will be inaugurated on the 22nd of February. It is undertood that Wm. Gilmore Simms will deliver an oration on the occasion, and that there will be a fine display of military, &c.

[From "All the Year Round.2] BOOK WORLD. When the dim presence of the awful night, Clasps in its jewefed arms the slumbering earth, Alone I sit beside the lowly light That like a dream-fre fickers on my hearth, ith same joy-meming colume in my hand-propied planet opalest and grand.

It may be Shakepeare, with his endless train, Or secretared thoughts, a glorious progeny Borne on the wherlwood of his mighty strong. Through vision lands forever far and free, this great mad beaming through those phantom Like evening sun from out a weath of clouds. It may be Milton on his scraph wings, Soaring to heights of grandeau yet untrod: Now deep where horrid shades of durkmas cling, Now lost in spiendor at the feet of God; Girt with the terror of avenging skies, Or wrapt in dreams of infant Paradise,

It may be Spenser, with his misty shades, Where forms of beauty wondrous tales, Where forms of beauty wondrous thest. With breezy vistus, and with cool arcades Opening forever in his actique verse. It may be Chancer with his drink divine, His Taburd old, and Pilgrims twenty nine.

erchance I ligger with the mighty Three Of glorious Greece, that morahing tand of some, Who barted the fearful front of Tragelly. And soured to fame on platons broad and strong; Or watch beheath the Trejan ramparts proud, The dim hosts gathering as a thunder could. o rest of time can only sully Quivote's mail, In wented rest his lance swaterly lies, Still in the faithful Sancha stort and hale, Forever wide his wondrous stricker, eyes; And Residente, been and several seed, Still throws giant shadows o'er their avery deed.

dil can I robe me in the old delights Of Callph splendid, and (lenii grim, The star-wealth of Arabia's thousand nights Shining till every other light grows dim; Wander away in broad, voluptions kinds, By streams of silver, and through golden sands, Still hear the storms of Camoons burst and swell.

His seas of venguance raging wild and wide;
Or wander by the glimmering lires of hell
With drenning Dante and his spirit guile;
Loiter in Petrarch's green, metodious grove,
Or hang with Tasso o'er his hopeless tove.

What then to me is all your sparsling dance,
Wine purpled banquet, or value fassion's blaze.
Thus reaming through the realms of rich Roman
Old Bookworld, and its wealth of royal days,
Forever with those brave and belliant ones
That fill Time's channel like a stream of suns!

[Written expressly for the Daily Sentinel.] TWENTY STEPS TO ONE WOMAN'S HEART.

[CONTINUED.] Not long after the morning meal Chartsey came. I stood by an open window and he came across the lawn and addressed me without any salutation, as follows: "Do you know, Lem, if there is anything that will make a slave of a man it's undue detestation of money; spending money is all well enough in its way, but the knack of raising one's self entirely above the dust by a heroic shying of his last penny at the world merely for the sake of being without it, it something every student of modern outlay does not attain to. If I should meet with young man in ordinary circumstances who disbursed a sudden income on the gratification of a whim, regardless of all the rainy days to be expected in the prospective calendars, I'd write him down an ass, and out him dead. I offer you this as friendly advice, Lem. I happen to be that young man [17]

"But I saw him off-he must certainly have gone to Europe," I said. "Not at all, not at all. Your seeing him off in the cars did not prevent him from taking ship at Boston for California. Mary ke telegraphed a word to me from that city; and now you have it."

The information perplexed me not a little BANKING AND EXCHANGE OFFICE | for a few days, but I ultimately concluded some friend had induced him to change his HOMOEOPATHIST, HOUSE AND OF-plans by a flattering representation of the Van Buren street. Wisconsin street, S. W. Corner of Portha Windly awd in elimate or the superior advantages of the voyage in the Pacific, and I forgot the matter. Chartsey domiciled himself at once, and preparations to spend the season together MANUFACTURERS OF SOAP AND went on with slacrity. The next day the M.R.R. depot, Milwaukee. arrival of a couple of blooded horses and a series of boxes, began to open my eyes as to Chartsey's prodigal speech. Then the work BEST RAILROAD TIME-KEEPERS On the grounds progressed daily. The lake OF THE BEST ENGLISH, SWISS AND American manufacture in Gold and Silver and Pinted Ware. Great variety of all kinds of Silver and Pinted Ware, and new rich Jewary of every style and description. Signs, the parterns were brought out anew, and the place resumed something of an air of refinement and cultivation. In the supervision of this work I found enough to supervision of this work I found enough to pecupy my mind for some time, and took no P. SpringStreet, Milwankee, Wis. 1712767417, small delight in watching the gradual progress made. Each morning I accompanied Chartsey on horseback for a few mile, but generally for the rest of the day he kept himself close, and with commendable industry scratched his pen in solitude. This state of things could not last long. As the work upon the grounds approached completion, and the novelty of the employment wore off, I felt the irksomeness of the life in prospect. Chartsey, too, seen relinquished his literary zeal, and the natural consequence was, we fell gradually into a state of sensual indolence; enjoying the repose of the warm afternoons in positive drowsiness, occasionally floating about on the lake under the shadows of the chestuats, or hunting the half tame rabbits that frequented the woods higher up the hill. Before two weeks of my existence at Lazylake had passed I had formed a habit of repairing immediately after dinner, to the summer house that stood near the margin of the water, overshadowed by a fragrant birch, and there, with a few books, give myself up to reverie or sleep. In this place Chartsey surprised one afternoon. He brought a couple of new meerachaums and a paper of ASSOCIATION. scarfaletti, and made a formal presentation of one of the pipes to me with a speech:-"Accept it, honored sir, and smoke it. We will both commence together on this, the inauguration of our close friendship, and the happiness we experience will be marked upon the amber bowls, to be admired and treasured among the pleasantest memories of king speeches, and the nicotian incense which should rise unceasing for the next year, must be the best oblation I could offer to the Jove who had consented to bless my solitude with his presence and thunder; and that I particularly desired to know what the next acceptable gift was.

"Lem, my Endymion," he said, "when the 'illimitable giggle'—as Horace bath it— PALC CREAM ALE, of Nature subsides; when the balm of the birchen glades gives out, and the crush of the the wood pigeon's note is no more able to wake up your ennul than a hurdy-gurdy; when all your wild wood fountains are muddied and the mask of novelty dropps of of the out-door dame, what are you going to do | On Eigth, Chestnut and Prairie Streets, with yourself? Yawn, guttural sighs running into unportical snores, ch? There's where I come in, arbiter elegantiarum, making a gift of tongues—i. e., a gift of myself, to grow fresh as Lazylake grows stale."

"In the name of all that's verdant and mythological," I exclaimed, "make your statements and embellish them afterwards, so that I can enjoy the ornaments!" Chartsey stretched himself on the remaining seat and puffed a few minutes at his meerschaum. Suddenly waving the cloud of smoke away with his hand, he said: "Lem, will you do me a favor ?" There was a peculiar earnestness in his face and I answered without hesitation: "I will."

" You are in love with Blanche Therberand though you have tucked the passion in around your heart and left nothing on the outer walls to tell the tale, I know it, and see it; or, I will not say that I see it, but] have a theory of my own to that effect. I say you are in love with her-that would be a reasonable indication from the premises that every body else, but myself, is in just | the same fix; but I have other reasons for placing considerable faith in my faith". I opened my mouth to reply, and he added, regarding me attentively through the waving vreaths of scarfalletti:

"Don't deny it, even if I were wrong-and I know I'm not; it would mar the most romantic portion of this twin banishment to lay so. Somehedy ought to be in love with Blanche out here, at the very gates of her astle."

"But I'm not going to deny it." "Oh, ho! very well then. The favor I story. I heard, at different times, contradictory versions of it, mixed up with a great deal of gossip, but never a word from your lips. Let's have the whole of it now; I faney it would be interesting." "The fancy will fade with the narration then," I answered; "for it lacks an essential of all good stories—a sequel." "Who knows," he added, "but the narative may help you to a sequel yet— The tale, the tale, the tale, as empty halls Gaps for a coming pageant, my fond ears, To take its music, are all eager wide." Thus evoked, I began:
